

A COMMAND CENTER FOR THE JOB SEARCH

Offer Track

A dossier for every company, one pipeline board over all of them, a prep bank of STAR stories and interview questions, weekly reviews, and an offer matrix for the endgame – pre-linked and ready to write in.

The Briefing

Offer Track treats your search like the operation it is. Every company gets a dossier, every dossier reports to one pipeline board, and the prep bank holds your STAR stories and question sheets so interview day is a re-read, not a scramble.

HOW TO RUN THE SEARCH

1. Open a blank dossier when a company gets interesting – write the role, the source, the money.
2. Put it on the pipeline board and write its true stage in the STAGE column.
3. Bank six STAR stories once; sketch answers in the question bank before every loop.
4. Log every human in the contact ledger – warm intros beat cold applies.
5. Close each week with a review, and settle the endgame on the offer matrix.

HOW THE BOARD STAYS HONEST

The board lists every dossier under five stage bands – Wishlist, Applied, Interviewing, Offer, Closed. Chips fill the bands top to bottom as you open dossiers; the STAGE column beside each chip is where you write where things truly stand. The board never pretends to know.

STANDING ORDERS

Worked Example

One dossier filled end to end for a fictional company, and one STAR story told the way it should be told in the room – so you can see the system running before you point it at your own search.

Everything on this desk is marked EXAMPLE. Your live search runs from the Search HQ.

FIELD NOTES

A Finished STAR Story

THE QUESTION IT ANSWERS

Tell me about a time you led a project without formal authority.

SITUATION

THE SETTING, IN ONE BREATH

At Harborlight Systems our churn dashboard had been quietly wrong for six weeks. Three teams each assumed another owned the fix, and the executives kept reading the bad number every Monday.

TASK

WHAT WAS ON YOU, SPECIFICALLY

I was the newest engineer on the platform team, but I decided someone had to own the number – and that the fix mattered more than whose backlog it landed in.

ACTION

WHAT YOU DID – VERBS, NOT WE

I traced the pipeline end to end and wrote a one-page incident note naming the broken join, then convened the three leads for a thirty-minute triage. I proposed carrying the fix myself with one reviewer from each team, and published a daily two-line status until it shipped.

RESULT

THE NUMBER, THE CHANGE, THE PROOF

Churn reporting was corrected in nine days and the Monday number moved back within half a percent of finance. The incident note became the team template, and two of those leads later sponsored my promotion case.

Rehearse it aloud at ninety seconds. If they are rushed, tell the result first and offer the rest.

Search HQ

Your live search: 10 company dossiers wired to one pipeline board, six STAR story sheets, a question and ask bank, a contact ledger, the offer matrix, and 8 chained weekly reviews.

This copy: 10 dossiers · 8 weekly reviews. Set dossierCount (4-16) and reviewWeeks (4-16) in the generator config.

Questions About You

Sketch the shape of an answer – bullets and STAR pointers, never a script.

01 Walk me through your background – what thread connects the moves you have made?

02 Tell me about a piece of work you are genuinely proud of. What was hard about it?

03 Describe a time you disagreed with a decision and were overruled. What did you do next?

04 Tell me about a failure that still stings. What changed in how you work because of it?

05 When everything is urgent and priorities conflict, how do you actually choose?

Questions About Fit

Sketch the shape of an answer – bullets and STAR pointers, never a script.

01 Why this company, and why now? What would make you turn the offer down?

02 What does the best manager you ever had do that the others did not?

03 Tell me about the hardest feedback you have received. Did they have a point?

04 What would your current team miss most in the week after you leave?

05 What do you want to be doing in three years that you cannot do today?

« Questions about you

Asks For The Room

Good questions are diligence – you are deciding too. Tick each ask once it has been answered.

ABOUT THE WORK

- ☐ What would the first ninety days of this role look like, concretely?
- ☐ What is the hardest problem on this team right now, and why is it still open?

ABOUT THE TEAM

- ☐ How does work actually get decided here – who says no, and how often?
- ☐ When someone leaves this team, what is usually the reason?

ABOUT THE FUTURE

- ☐ How was the last person in this role promoted – what did that take?
- ☐ A year from now, what would make you say this hire was a great call?

The Offer Matrix

One column per offer – write the company in the header, then fill the rows straight across.

FACTOR	OFFER 1	OFFER 2	OFFER 3	OFFER 4
BASE SALARY the number on the letter
BONUS · VARIABLE target and how real it is
EQUITY · VESTING grant, schedule, cliff
BENEFITS · TIME OFF health, leave, retirement
GROWTH · TRAJECTORY who you become there
THE GUT CALL the feeling you keep denying

THE DECISION

The offer I am taking, and the sentence that says why:

Not every row weighs the same – circle the two that decide it for you before you compare numbers.
